BURNING ISSUES:

“Is it Live or is it Memorex?”

By Pam Key
Correspondence Editor

Matthew 14:22-33

In the 80’s a manufacturer as part of their promotion made a cassette tape called Memorex. This particular brand of tape proclaimed that it was so true to the real thing that you could never tell the difference between what was live or what was recorded. Their theme then became a challenge for the consumer to determine if it was live or was it Memorex. So it is with our faith. One minute we are full of faith and the next we are not. No matter how the Master, our Savior, tells us in His word or shows us through His miracles, we doubt.

Jesus sent his disciples away on the boat to go before Him. When the boat got in the middle of the sea the waves became boisterous. Later on that night Jesus went to them walking on the water. All of those in the boat thought they saw a ghost so they cried out in fear. When Jesus answered them assuring them that it was Him, Peter asked to come to Him and Jesus allowed him to come. Peter, as he approached Jesus, began to notice the strong winds around him and took his eyes off of Jesus.

Just like Peter, Jesus allows us in the midst of the storm to get out of the boat and come to Him. We come to him through prayer and fasting but are still distracted by the circumstances of our storms or the distractions of others. This doubt is not because of the Father but because of our own belief inside of us. We often times also doubt that we are worthy of forgiveness. You hear it all of the time and may have even said it: “I will go to church when I get right” or “I can’t pray because God doesn’t hear my prayer” or “I will go to Jesus when I stop...” Well that is a lie of the devil. Jesus declares His unfailing and unwavering love for us and because of something that we may have done, or even our current circumstances we feel unworthy of His love (II Cor. 2:10-11). Jesus doesn’t want us to worry or be in despair because He cares for us (Isa. 41:10).

Keep your focus on Jesus. He is faithful and true. All have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God but Jesus stands with arms open wide to

← BEEN THERE - DONE THAT →

ARE YOU NEXT?

By Jonathan Best, III

If you continue to do what you always did, you'll get what you always got ...

My Wasted Life

How did I get a second degree life sentence for murder? It took a lot of hard work.

It started at the age of thirteen. I began by sneaking cigarettes. That led to alcohol. As I got a little older, thinking I was all grown-up at 15, I started smoking a little weed here and there. Then I was selling weed.

Eventually I ended up in D.Y.S. for a punk three month bid. I came out doing it all over again. This time around I was using and selling cocaine. I was the man! I had it all: money, girls, rental cars, jewelry. I was a real time player/gangster.

I want you to know that this lifestyle will get you a one-way ticket to one of two places: prison (if you are lucky) or the cemetery (if you are not lucky). I ended up in prison all because I wanted to be like “my boys.” I fell victim to peer pressure. I left my mother without a son, my daughter without her father. I wanted to like “my boys” – the same boys I haven’t seen or heard from since I have been in prison.

From one gangster to another, forget this lifestyle now before you end up in prison or worse.

Pay Attention!

Breaking the chains that bound me to my past bitterness was a long journey. During the 15 plus years I spent in prison, I’ve learned that true freedom is not from temptation or from prison. True freedom is having the power to stop doing things that will get me into trouble.

Good people sometimes are capable of doing bad things and allow stupidity to overcome thoughts. I blindly followed the wrong crowd. I’ll live with that the rest of my life, but I am still a decent person with ambitions, feelings and a vision for my future.

When I now make a commitment in life, I take the first step to make the necessary changes. I choose God first. I close the door behind me and the further I go and the longer I remain committed, the more it becomes a part of who I am going to become!

Watch Your Step

Each of us was conceived by destiny, produced by purpose and packaged with potential to live a meaningful and fulfilling life. There’s only one quality that has had more of an effect on my life in the past and that is not believing in myself.

“Lord Jesus, I believe You died for me and I believe You live again. I believe You have forgiven me and I believe You can help me defeat my addiction. Come inside and fill me with Your Spirit. Help me organize my life around You. Give me the courage, wisdom and strength I need, one day at a time.”

welcome us into His kingdom. As a matter of fact He sits at the right hand of the Father interceding on our behalf asking continually for the Father to forgive us of our sins. He wants you to come just like you are. Don’t allow doubt and disbelief to cause you to miss out on all that God has for you here on earth.

Jesus loves for us is the real thing it is never Memorex.

KEEP IT REAL SAINTS

NOT ABOUT "ME"

By Larry Smith

I once stayed thirsty; there was a void I felt all my life, before Christ. A hungered for something I didn't know and had no clue where to find it. I looked for something to fill the void. I searched for it in love, in the sex that I mistook for love, through drugs, people and in trying to feel important by inflating myself in the eyes of others but I could never find an answer in sight.

I needed help so badly, I ended up finding a place to be by myself and I prayed from the depths of my soul; I cried out in my torment to God. I begged and pleaded and told Him all that I needed from Him. I'm a bit on the hard-headed side, a Missourian. I felt like being saved wasn't quite enough; I needed to feel and see things to believe they were real. So I told God that too and while I prayed I began to see things in my mind. These things showed me why no answers were in sight for me. It was because the eyes cannot see the spirit of hope. I didn't realize it at the time but God did and He knew the only place I could find it was with Him.

He showed me that I do not have to see Him to know He is real. He laid His hand on my heart that day. There was more feeling of love in that touch than I can ever explain. It gave me a great deal of understanding but my being a bit hard-headed, I still couldn't put it all in perspective so I told God that too. Then I asked Him why did I still feel so lost? I began to see something else.

In my mind I watched Jesus being whipped and beaten, driven across a city with a huge post on His back.

When He'd stumble and fall they'd beat Him more. His flesh was torn and bleeding. I watched Him nailed down, suffering; it was His decision to go through it willingly. He was doing it to atone for all our sins but I felt acutely aware that He was doing it for me. It also dawned on me if He was dying for all sin you and I may as well have been there to help crucify Him. That is also when I realized exactly what my sin meant and it made me feel so small and unworthy. He looked down on me from the cross with so much pain and love in his eyes it ripped my heart out.

I've never really felt worthy of being loved, and this was a love I knew was there. I don't think I could ever really explain what I felt or how deeply it was at that moment. But as I stood there turned wrong-side out emotionally, tears streaming down my face, I knew that Jesus was dying for me. I finally saw all my sin, all the pain I've caused, the lives I've helped destroy and I knew that I was loved way beyond any love I could ever comprehend. I'm not sure, but I may have even cried out for Jesus not to love me because I wanted no part of Him dying there because of me. I know I sound like a lunatic, but I was there at the base of that cross in my sin, just as surely as I'm standing here today.

I knew then I could never refuse His unselfish gift, not when I knew all Jesus paid to be able to give it to me. Knowing all He endured for me, how could I ever have felt embarrassment or shame for a gift of love that great, one that cost a life and that gives life everlasting each and every day?

I should be ashamed of myself for ever letting myself be considered my main priority.

WHY ARE WE HERE?

By Shell McIntosh

I am here to preach the Gospel.
I am here to be an example, as Christ was an example to me.
I am here to praise God.
I am here to worship God.
I am here to give thanks to His Holy Name.

Jehovah Jireh, my provider. The most serene, I am here to Glorify God in all I do.

I might not be where I am supposed to be with Jesus but I'm not where I used to be without Jesus.

HOW I CAN MAKE THE WORLD BETTER AND SAFER FOR THE FUTURE AND TOMORROW?

By Charlie Carter

- ◆ Get out of prison and don't come back by living a repented life, while warning those in society to turn from their ways of lawfulness and sin, before they too must one day come here.
- ◆ By establishing a crime victim relief and recovery center for all people of all ages, genders and national origins. This is to include men, women, children, and both single and married.
- ◆ Establish a potential crime awareness education program. To establish all people to the dangers of potential crime to them or someone else in their immediate presence.

Keep on working on these plans.
